SEVEN I. W. W. MEN REFUSE TO REGISTER

Arrested on Cuyuna Range Thursday and Still Persist in Refusing to Obey Federal Law

Sheriff Claus A. Theorin This Afternoon Wired St. Paul Federal Authorities for Instructions

Seven I. W. W. men arrested on the Cuyuna iron range Thursday are cooped in the city jail and refuse to register. They are alien Finns and the greater number speak good English and are credited with enough sense to know what they are doing. They were arrested in the drive of Thursday. Sheriff Claus A. Theorin acting under federal orders told them Saturday that if they registered they would be released.

One of their spokesmen said they had to speak to their friends before they registered. They were permitted to call up Crosby and talk.

Apparently the conversation held did not favor registration, for they refused to sign.

Sheriff Theorin this afternoon wired St. Paul for the federal authorities to take them over.

In the mean time this lot of alien Finns is being fed and housed in the city of Brainerd's model city jail and the Finns persist in saying they will return to work at the mines, but they will not register.

Brainerd people are taking considerable interest in the case to see what the federal government will mete out in the way of punishment for a lot of aliens who persist in defying federal orders in war time.

Total registration figures of Crow Wing county give 2499 registrations, of which 506 are aliens and 679 make no claim for exemption. This morning five aliens from Crosby registered and several automobile loads are expected this afternoon.

With the British Armies, June 11—Gen. Pershing has arrived in Europe at the precise moment when he can profit best by the lessons of the Messines victory.

The feature of the battle was the saving of lives by the proper use of machines of war. The loss of British lives is less than 10,000 in the Fytchaste-Messines battle, while the Germans put their own loss at 35,000. The artillery concentration was effective.

Soap, Linen, Bread, Obtained by Germans from the Russians while Fraternizing

(By United Press)
Petrograd, June 11—Germany encouraged her soldiers to trade with the enemy and the German soldiers got incredible quantities of soap, linen and bread from the Russians during the time of fraternization, consequently the war ministry forbid fraternizing and the tossing of articles into enemy trenches excepting with hostile intent, the Germans being in the habit of exchanging their pocket knives and trinkets for soap and other necessities so scarce in Germany.

The newspapers claim that this scheme was worked over the entire 100 miles of front and that vast supplies of cheap trinkets disposed of make it apparent that the idea was conceived by the German authorities.

CHAMBER COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

To be Inaugurated Shortly after Club Dinner to be Given June 20, if Speakers Secured

Chamber Recognized as One of the Strongest in Northwest of any City the Size of Brainerd

The Chamber of Commerce will inaugurate a membership campaign the latter part of the present month, immediately following a club dinner, to be given by the house and social committee on the 20th of June, if the speaker now being corresponded with can be secured for that date.

A number of membership contracts will expire and it is a good sign to note that several have renewed the same voluntarily of late, while the number of new members since the first of the year is very satisfactory, considering that there has been no regular campaign for members and the chairman of that committee practically accomplished what has been done by a personal canvass of desirable prospects. The committee will meet soon and outline the plan of the campaign.

Active Work Ahead

Never in the history of the country have commercial clubs and community organizations been called upon to perform the work of the present year. The Chamber of Commerce has been and is now recognized as the community center of the city and county and the rooms are constantly being used, afternoon and evening, for meetings of committees and organizations "doing their bit" for the community and nation in the present crisis.

This has been recognized here and committees of public-spirited men women are putting their best efforts into the work before Brainerd, using the Chamber as the natural clearing house and through which practically all correspondence is carried, details arranged and the work outlined.

The coming year beginning July 1, when a number of memberships are to be renewed, will see no let-up in Brainerd, judging from the interest being shown on every hand by men and women who are willing to do their part for the home city and community.

One Year Memberships.

It has been recommended and the plan endorsed that memberships are to be taken for one year, instead of three and this will be considered by the advisory board and the membership committee in the near future. It is advanced that the year membership is most advisable, as it does away with the idea of being bound to a lengthy contract, affords opportunity to enlist men who are ready to serve the community during their residence here but whose plans are not so definite as to warrant their signing a three-year contract.

In the case where a club is but recently organized, it has been found advisable to sign members for three years, as was the case in the local organization but now that the Chamber is thoroughly organized, its policy mapped out, record of actual service established and plans for the future understood, it is not considered necessary to longer adopt the three-year plan. This is the plan advocated by successful organizations elsewhere, after the club is organized and "going strong."

Liberal Donations

The Chamber of Commerce has been very liberal in the consideration of every demand upon it during the past fiscal year. Donations have been made in every case where it was considered possible and much actual community work and good results are credited the organization by thinking men and women. Bills have been met promptly, discounts taken in the matter of purchases and the business affairs of the club are reported in excellent condition.

A Strong Organization

The Chamber is recognized as one of the strongest in the northwest in a city of the population Brainerd. Little misunderstandings and differences, which may have existed in the past have been "ironed out," with good prospects ahead for honest effort on the part of citizens generally for the good of "the home town." Wide publicity has been given activities here, as is indicated by frequent inquiries from other clubs in cities many miles remote from Brainerd, seeking some suggestions on "the Brainerd plan" of this or that public effort.

Business Men United

It is a wholesome sign of the times to note the manner in which local business men are uniting their efforts on this or that proposition for the general good and betterment of conditions and the ladies are showing equal interest in club work, recognizing as they do the importance of united effort at all times when it comes to community betterment.

The best predictions at this time seem to be, judging from talks with men who should know, that the Chamber will have a working membership of between 600 and 700 public spirited men the coming year and that the work outlined and under way for the betterment of conditions in the city and county, will be carried on to a successful conclusion.

Prompt attention to the call for memberships is expected and a lively, successful campaign the latter part of the month seems assured.

Funerals in Scotland.

In Scotland the custom still prevails of taking down the window blinds at a death and hanging white sheets across the windows. The custom also prevails in the north of England, and in many families a special sheet reserved for the death chamber is kept for the purpose and often used from generation to generation. In many parts of Scotland, too, it is still customary for the nearest relatives of the deceased to lower the body into the grave and wait by the side until the grave is filled up.—London Mail.

Umpire has Upheld
Baseball's Honor
Declares an Umpire

BY H. C. HAMILTON,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, June 11.—"Pushed into the background, unnoticed, but performing his duty day after day, the umpire leads a sorry life. But he has the satisfaction of knowing it is he and no other who has upheld the integrity of baseball, kept it free from suspicion all the days of its existence," declared one of the oldest arbiters in the game recently.

"Don't show me an umpire," he said, "who never was threatened with violence at the hands of a bunch of rabid baseball bugs. He isn't a real umpire. The close ones have to go against somebody, and a man who makes all his close ones count for the home club is a bad man for the game.

"Baseball players will cheat because that's what they're taught to do. They'll cut a base if they can. They'll do anything they think they can get away with. The home fan calls him a smart man, cute and clever and the umpire has to catch these slips. He's got to make that man walk the line right. It's the man out there in blue, reviled by the fans, unnoticed when good things are said of the game, that is keeping this game clean.

"I walked into the gate of a baseball park today as a woman with child entered. She saw us and laughed at us, and she actually told the little boy to laugh at us. She was teaching that child to call us robbers when he grows up. It's disgusting.

"But so long as baseball is the hard, tight affair that it is now; so long as the public wants to see the hard-fought games it's going to be that way. A ball-player will fight till he drops to win a point in a baseball game. Only the umpire is expected to have a clear head. He has to have the nerve to enforce the rules of the game every time something happens. No matter what it is he has only one course to take—the right one. It certainly is he who is keeping the game free from criticism."

Still One More Task to Face.

"So your long day's work is done." "Not yet. I've finished as far as the office is concerned, but as soon as I get home and eat my supper I've got to go with my wife to some moving picture show"—Detroit Free Press.

THE STORY

"Womanhood, the Glory of the Nation," at Best Monday and Tuesday

Mary Ward, a brilliant American girl, is guest of honor at a farewell ball in Ruritania. This is a country in which the de facto ruler, Marshal Prince Dario, holds sway. His son, Count Dario, is very young and susceptible and he falls sincerely in love with Mary.

He proposes to Mary, who almost accepts him. She tells him if he is in earnest to come to America for her answer. He makes the significant comment that he may be in America sooner than she expects.

With the strongest fighting machine in the world, a depleted treasury and a revolution pending another tax burden, the leaders in the Ruritanian council point to America—peace-loving, rich and unprotected—as the one object of their salvation. A pretext is easily found to precipitate hostilities.

Touring homeward by way of Manila, Mary meets Paul Strong, a virile type of American, as governor of the Philippines just at the moment of the war's outbreak. There is a chance period of courtship afforded them amid the tense panic of the national calamity when they travel on the same vessel to the states, he to take up important duties in connection with the defense, for the enemy has struck.

The full horror of a hopeless conflict marks the first stages of the war. Churches, mills and homes are destroyed and the helpless and homeless are subjected to frightful persecution, while America's untrained soldiers are slain by the thousands.

The whole nation is passing through a dire ordeal when Paul Strong is appointed Director of Emergency. As such he formulates a wonderful and comprehensive plan of united action and thought. However, because of past unpreparedness, long months of persistent effort must elapse ere the program reaches fulfillment. Mary for her part undertakes another and most dangerous patriotic work. Being thrown in contact with the invaders, she manages to secure a place in their headquarters through pretending to reciprocate the love of Count Dario.

Mary's position at the Ruritanian headquarters, from which she is in secret communication with the American camp beyond the city, becomes precarious when she slips through the lines to attend the meetings of the patriotic defenders.

After one of her narrow escapes, Paul Strong, boldly makes his way into the midst of the enemy council and delivers America's final challenge. He is mocked and Mary, at the same time, is confronted with evidence of her espionage. Both are condemned to be shot. But America is ready at last, Paul demonstrates it by an object lesson that quickly secures for him and Mary safe conduct back to their lines.

The concentration of resources and highly trained patriotism now make good in the final test. There is a great battle on land and sea in which the enemy is annihilated. America emerges once more—a nation strong and triumphant.

AERIAL FIGHTING CONTINUES

Small Surprise Attacks Are the Only Infantry Activities on the French Front—Italians Are Preparing to Renew Their Attacks on the Austrian Trenches.

London, June 11.—Another day has passed without the demoralized Germans along the Ypres front making an effort to regain the ground they lost last Thursday. South of Ypres, however, the Teutons heavily bombarded British positions, which, with additional terrain, was taken from them Saturday night on several sectors.

Aerial activity between the German and British fliers continued Saturday. Nine enemy machines were accounted for by the British, who themselves lost three.

There has been no fighting where the French are facing the Germans rising above the character of small surprise attacks.

On the Chemin des Dames the Germans penetrated a small salient west of Cerny, but almost immediately were driven out.

In the Austro-Italian theater the fighting is being done entirely by the artillery. From the fact that Italian reconnoitering parties are being sent out to survey the new positions of the Austrians on the Carso front another great battle probably is not far distant.

In Macedonia, especially along the Vardar river sector, artillery duels are in progress.

Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan Are Somewhat Slow.

Washington, June 11.—Totals of subscriptions to the Liberty loan aggregate $1,300,000,000, as announced Friday by Secretary McAdoo, were made public by the treasury department, showing that not one of the twelve federal reserve districts has subscribed to its minimum allotment, although New York has nearly reached the minimum.

In some instances the amount of subscriptions from federal reserve districts has fallen to less than one-third of the allotments. The figures made public are based upon actual subscriptions forwarded to the reserve banks.

WOMAN'S REALM

PRESERVING FISH FOR DOMESTIC USE

Bureau of Fisheries Offer Advice as to Canning Fish for Winter Use While Plenty

TWO EASY METHODS OFFERED

People Living Near Streams and Lakes are Fortunate in Being Able to Secure Supply

As a measure of economy in the present period of high prices of food-stuffs and as a contribution to the conservation of the food supply, which is one of the country's urgent needs, the bureau of fisheries urges housewives, particularly those living near streams and lakes or the seashore, to preserve fish for home consumption. The fish can be bought when they are cheap, during times of plenty, and held for use during the winter when, ordinarily, prices are high. In many cases waste fishes, which because of prejudice or ignorance are not placed on the market, may be bought for little and sometimes may be obtained from the fishermen for the asking. Practically all fishes are edible, and purchasers should not be deterred from buying them on account of their unattractive appearance. Some of the ugliest are among the best. Two easy methods of preserving, namely, canning and salting, are available to housewives. To be sure of success the methods here described should be carefully followed:

CANNING.

When using coarse-skinned, thick-skinned fishes, cut off the fins or make an incision on each side of the fin and pull it out. Make an incision through the skin along the back, another along the belly, and connect these two by a third encircling the body just behind the head. Impale the head on a hook or sharpened nail through a plank take hold of the skin at the angle or the two incisions at the back of the head and remove it by pulling toward the tail. Thin-skinned fishes, like herring and alewives, should be scaled, not skinned.

Cut off the head, remove the intestines and other organs, and take out the backbone by making a cut with a sharp knife on each side, inside of the body cavity. Wash thoroughly, taking particular care to remove the blood along the back.

Cut the fish into strips to fit the length of the jars to be used and rub with dry salt, using a level tablespoonful to each pint jar of fish. Fill the jars with the pieces packed as tightly as possible, put on the rubber rings, and place the caps on the jars loosely, so that the steam can escape. Put hot water in the jars. Cook in a pressure cooker for one and one-half hours after steam pressure registers 15 pounds or the temperature 250 degrees. Tighten the caps of the jars and permit cooling. Use the cooker as directed by the makers. There are several kinds on the market and the bureau of fisheries, Washington, D. C., will furnish addresses of manufacturers on application.

SALTING.

Large fish having soft fins, small scales, and thin skin should be scaled but not skinned. Remove the head split down the belly to the vent and remove the viscera. Make a cut on each side of the backbone inside of the body cavity, cut the bone in two as far back as it can be reached and remove the cut-off portion, then make a deep cut along one side of the backbone for the remainder of its length and remove the tail. If the fish are too large to go into the container, cut them to the proper length. The cheeks and the portion between the jaws, including the tongue, of many large fishes are excellent when boiled and they may be preserved by removing the eyes and gills and packing the heads, after splitting them lengthwise, in the same container with the rest of the fish.

Slender fish, such as mackerel, whiting, large herring, etc., should be split down the back to one side of the backbone for the entire length, the belly walls not being cut. The backbone need not be removed. Smaller fish of the same character need not be split but should be carefully eviscerated. Coarse-skinned, thick-skinned, spiny-finned fishes like black bass, perch, etc., should be skinned and unless large and thick-meated need not be split.

Having dressed and thoroughly washed the fish in water containing a little salt, taking particular care to remove the blood near the backbone, cure them as follows:

Place a layer of coarse salt on the bottom of a tight keg, barrel or other suitable vessel, and on this spread a layer of fish, one deep, sprinkle salt thickly over these, add another layer of fish, and repeat until the barrel is full or the supply of fish exhausted. The salt and the moisture from the fish will make a strong brine in which the fish should be left for a week or 10 days. At the end of that time remove the fish, thoroughly wash them, repack in the barrel, and cover with a freshly made brine strong enough to float a fresh egg. After a week this brine should be drawn off and the barrel filled with a saturated brine; that is, one in which a little undissolved salt will remain on the bottom of the vessel after the solution has been subjected to prolonged stirring. Do not reuse the old brine. The barrel or keg should then be headed and stored in a cellar or the coolest place available. If there should be any leakage, which may be discovered by the sound made when the barrel is struck with a stick at various heights, it should be made good by adding strong brine through a bung-hole. If the receptacle can not be filled at once, the fish may be preserved by placing on top of them a cover made of a barrel head or of pieces of wood cleated together to fit the container and weighting it with a clean stone or other heavy article which will not be affected by the salt. The success of the operation will depend on using fresh fish, exercising care in the salting and the proper mixing of the brine, and on keeping the barrel tight and the fish covered with strong brine.

Woman's Financial Help Need in War

BY MRS. ANTOINETTE FUNK

Vice Chairman of the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee.
(Written for the United Press)

SECOND MESSAGE.

Washington, June 9.—War today is not built on valor alone. It is built on the close co-operation of all the men and women in the nation. The women of the country must get behind their government. Somewhere along the line, they must reach the point of self denial, either in luxury or in real necessities and divert the money to support this war recognizing always that this is a war for their defense.

Every woman who can should buy a Liberty bond. This is a war that the women of our beloved country may not meet the fate of women of Belgium. This is a war to insure peace. This is a war against the wrong ideals of government which had their birth in the blasphemous holy alliance. It is a war that cannot be fought without money. Money stands for food; it stands for shelter; it stands for medical aid for the soldiers at the front. No woman would deny her personal ministrations, but the ministrations must be made through others.

Money that we put in Liberty Bonds stands for our tenderness; it stands for our patriotism. You are not required to give, only pledged to pay the debt. Women should know that a Liberty Bond is the written promise of the whole United States to pay back the amount invested, plus 3½ percent interest. This interest will be paid semi-annually. Liberty Bonds are the safest investment in the world, and they are not subject, either principal or interest, to any kind of taxation, except the inheritance tax.

It is not only a Liberty Bond, but it is a Loyalty Bond. The money thus loaned the government provides for our security; it provides for the welfare of our men at the front; it provides for brave little France and for glorious England, and for Italy, and for all our splendid allies struggling to shake off the beast of ambition that sprang at their throats three years ago.

VEGETABLE CANNING

Demonstration to be Given Friday Afternoon at Domestic Science Rooms by Mrs. Baker

In accordance with plans made at the women's mass meeting, Mrs. Baker, of the state agricultural school, will give a demonstration in vegetable canning next Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the domestic science rooms in the high school building.

Mrs. Baker was secured through the courtesy of Mr. Calhoun, county agricultural agent and she will demonstrate before the women of the Bay Lake Improvement club on Saturday. Mrs. Baker uses the cold pack method and will apply it to all the vegetables available at this season—aspargus, tomatoes, string beans, etc. She will be glad to answer any questions concerning the best cans to use, time of cooking various vegetables, and the use of substitutes.

If each woman will make a list of the questions that occur to her between now and next Friday, much time will be saved and much information gained.

On the black-boards of the domestic science rooms will be placed a number of economical receipts that have been tried and not found wanting. Many of these use corn meal instead of wheat flour, and those interested had better provide themselves with pencil and paper, and tell their neighbors to do likewise.

Remember the day and the hour—Friday, June 15th, at two-thirty, at the high school.

DELEGATE TO JEWISH CONGRESS

Rabbi Maurice Lefkowitz and Solomon Bublik of Duluth Candidates in Balloting Held

ED LEVANT TOOK BALLOT HERE

Both Men and Women Voted, Ballots Were Counted at Duluth on Sunday Night

Jews of Duluth and Brainerd and the Mesaba range last week voted for a delegate to the American Jewish congress, to meet in Washington, D. C., Sept. 2, for the purpose of defining methods for obtaining protection of Jewish rights in all lands, and for the securing economic reconstruction of the Jewish communities in the war zone.

There were two Minnesota candidates, Rabbi Maurice Lefkowitz and Solomon Bublik, both of Duluth, and there is little doubt of the result, as it is believed Rabbi Lefkowitz won by a large majority. Brainerd voted for the rabbi.

Each voter paid 10 cents for his ballot at the time of voting. This money will be sent to the New York headquarters to defray expenses of the congress. This will be the first time that such a meeting of Jews will have been held in 2,000 years. Both men and women voted.

In the Brainerd election district ballots were cast with Ed Levant.

The Fragrant Bath.

Every one knows the comfortable feeling which results from a hot bath after a hard day's work. That feeling is enhanced when the bath is made fragrant by the addition of a muslin bag of powdered orris root, about a tablespoonful in a bath, and a dessert-spoonful of tincture of benzoin, which is a balsam.

The aromatic and perfumed atmosphere that reigns in your bathroom as the result of this herb and spice mixture is delicious, soothing and mildly stimulating.

Famous Horseman Dies.

New York, June 11.—Philip J. Dwyer, a well known horseman, died at his home here. He was seventy-four years old. Mr. Dwyer accumulated a fortune on the turf, but not by gambling. He seldom, if ever, bet on a horse.

Filling In Cracks.

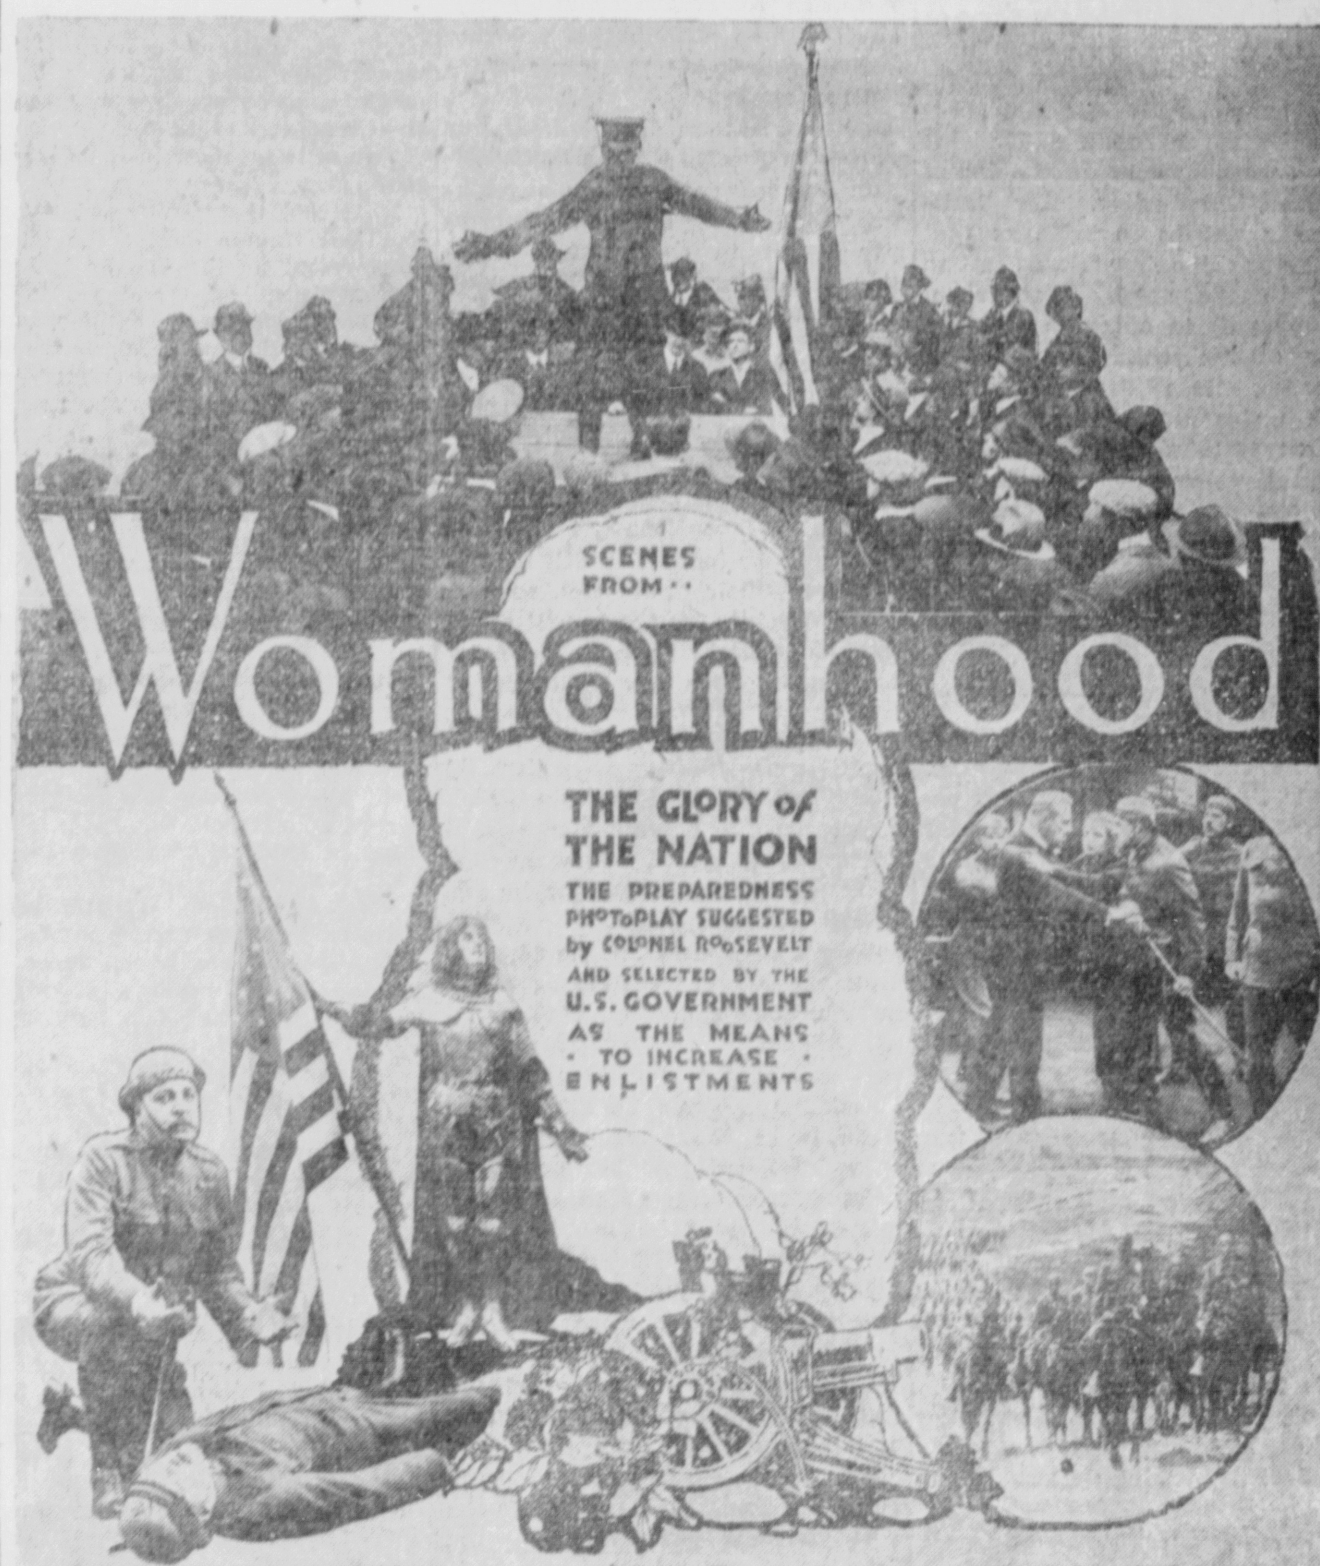

One of the bits of repair work that need occasionally to be done in the house is the filling up of cracks in the walls or baseboards. Cracks should always be filled promptly. Putty, plaster of paris, sawdust and glue are all good fillers for cracks of different sizes and in different places. Any of them may in time wear out and need renewal. Very thick putty is a good filler. Putty is whitening mixed with linseed oil, and if applied to unfinished wood the inner surfaces of the crack or hole should first be touched with shellac. If this is not done the oil from the putty will be absorbed and make a visible line or ring. Perhaps wax is better.

By the handy man or boy or by the woman who can use a few tools fairly well large cracks can better be filled with small wedges of wood driven in tightly. These may be so well filled and matched in color that they will not be noticed.

CROCHETED LACE AND THE CRISIS

Many women, before the war, had begun to celebrate about their own problems and their relation to the community. The entrance of the United States has forced others to think as never before. In any assembly of women, one finds them discussing their relations to the war.

One woman at a party pointed out the flaw in arguments against individual work of women at home. "They tell you knitting should be done in factories, and also the making of surgical supplies. But the woman with a small home and one or two children in school cannot neglect her home to enter a factory. She cannot dismiss her maid, because she never had a maid. But she can work an hour or so a day at something productive. Her knitting may not be so swift as that done by machine, but it adds just so much to the total. That woman probably puts in a couple of hours a day at the ultimate utility of crocheting lace for pillowcases, which under any circumstances is an inexcusable misuse of time. What shall the woman do with her ten hours a week to serve the country's need?"

Another woman walking home afterwards asked, "But if a woman has done her work and has time to spare, why should she not crochet lace for pillowcases if she wants to?"

This woman had begun to think. And the answer to all such questions is this: If a woman has deliberately planned her life, if after careful thought she has decided that she gets enough pleasure out of her crocheting to rise from it, rested and invigorated for her next task of service, she has every right in the world to crochet. If she is doing it simply to have wider lace and more of it than her neighbor, she is not justified.

No one can work all the time. But many people have a few hours a week which they could give the nation. How best to use these is still a problem. If only enough women will think seriously about it, some satisfactory solution will be forthcoming.

Meantime, if women deliberately decide that bridge or crochet is the best use for their time and energies, let them bridge and crochet.

But let them think first.

A LOYAL SOCIALIST?

With the resignation of John Spargo from the socialist party, the official socialist organization in this country stands hopelessly discredited. Mr. Spargo remains a socialist, but he repudiates American socialism under its present leadership. His explanation is a scathing criticism whose truth and justice the friends of rational socialism should be the first to recognize:

"From the early days of the war," he says, "the socialist party has in actual practice been committed to a program essentially unneutral, un-American and pro-German. Through the utterances and actions of the national executive committee, the national committee and our press, the party has been placed in the position of favoring precisely the things desired by the German foreign office and of opposing the things which the German foreign office opposed. We have repeated all the miserable evasions and apologies of German statesmen, and have been silent on those questions on which the German interests required silence."

He repudiates the claim that loyalty to the United States is inconsistent with true internationalism. "Loyal support to this nation is coincident with loyalty to the fundamental institutions without which there can be no socialist organization in the world. The issue is not loyalty to a ruler or a government, but to the fundamental institution of American democracy, which, however imperfect, is the most advanced yet developed anywhere in the world."

POOLING WAR KNOWLEDGE

It is said that the French and British missions that recently visited this country brought with them 40 packing cases full of models and drawings of their most effective war devices. These represented the mature results of the application of the best scientific minds of all the allied nations to the problems of modern warfare. Nearly all of them are new in whole or in part. All have stood the test of war as it is fought today. Every phase of the fighting is covered in those secret models and plans.

The whole outfit was turned over to the United States government for the information and equipment of our own forces. We shall thus reap the benefit of all the improvements worked out in Europe in the last three years in guns and artillery methods, in war planes and wireless and field telephones, in trench construction, in protection against poison gas, in submarine destroyers and all the rest.

The advantage of possessing this storehouse of practical military knowledge is incalculable. It puts us, immediately, on a par with the nations that have won their scientific triumphs through long and bitter experience. And because we come to the struggle with full strength and resources, we should soon be in a better position for waging effective war than any of the other belligerents.

We, of course, are likewise giving our allies everything of value we possess to promote the common cause. The scientific contribution amounts to little as yet, but if our native inventiveness has not vanished we shall soon be more than holding our own with Europe's war-scientists.

In this matter, as in so many others, we are being taught an impressive lesson in co-operation. Individuals, making valuable discoveries, give them freely to their country, and their country gives them freely to the countries associated with it in the great enterprise of battling to save civilization.

And when the fight is won, shall we return to the selfish exploitation of scientific inventions by individuals and single nations? Or will the nations pool their discoveries, as they are now doing, for the benefit of all mankind, thereby promoting the civilization they are now fighting for?

ETHER OR FRILLS

Most of the economies to which people are urged sound vague as to ultimate purpose. But a man writes to a metropolitan newspaper in this wise:

"Don't keep the $2 or the 25 cents saved cutting out oysters or candy in entertaining and blow it in on something else. Each time you cut out something from your table, lay it aside and don't be ashamed to offer it to the war. Twenty-five cents buys enough ether to give a painless operation; 15 cents buys a roll of absorbent cotton. Wouldn't you rather give blessed unconsciousness to a soldier during his amputation than to serve marrows glasses to guests who won't eat them anyway? Wouldn't you rather save a man severe loss of blood than take a walnut sundae?"

Every one who has suffered severe pain knows what this means. No one who has ever passed from torture into the blessed relief of anesthesia can be indifferent to this appeal.

Whatever your pet frill is, cut it out. And send your quarters where they will buy ether for the boys in pain.

Trouble Entirely Disappeared

Knudt Lee, Wannaska, Minn., writes: "For several years my daughter had a bad chronic cough. Not until we tried Foley's Honey and Tar did anything produce any great relief. In a few days the trouble entirely disappeared and has never returned." Contains no opiates; a safe reliable remedy; children like it. H. P. Dunn, druggist.—Adv. mwi

Youth Shows Miners Trapped in Spectacular Pit by Fire How to Build Barricades to Protect Themselves From Deadly Gas—Over One Hundred Men Are Unaccounted For.

Butte, Mont., June 11.—Twenty-five men, rescued alive from the 2,400-foot level of the Spectacular mine, after being trapped by a fire since early Saturday, owe their lives to the heroism and resourcefulness of Manus Duggan, a twenty-year-old nipper, or toll boy. He may have paid for his bravery with his own life.

Young Duggan, displaying rare presence of mind, showed his older fellow workers how to bulkhead themselves from the dangerous gas and preserve their lives until their rescue. There were twenty-seven members of the party and twenty-five of them are alive, the twenty-sixth man, J. H. McAdams, dying despite efforts to resuscitate him. The fate of young Duggan is not known.

Because of the rescue the safety first men at the Spectacular mine have renewed their efforts and opinions have been expressed by the rescued men that others of the 120 miners are safe on lower levels.

When the gas from the fire surged through the levels of the mine twenty-nine men were on the 2,400-foot level. The survivors rescued were the men who made the valiant fight for their lives.

Directed by Manus Duggan, they built a bulkhead on the 2,400-foot level and stuffed it with canvas and portions of their clothing. A short distance away they made a second bulkhead and filled the space between them with dirt. This kept the gas out and they were in comparative safety for a while.

SHOOTING CAUSES A PANIC

Mill Superintendent Fired on in a Crowded Theater.

Cloquet, Minn., June 11.—G. O. Smith, fifty years old, superintendent of mills for the Cloquet Lumber company, was shot and perhaps fatally wounded by Jess Stevens, a former employe, as he sat in a rear seat in the Grand theater here.

Two of three shots fired by Stevens took effect.

It is said that Smith and Stevens had had trouble during the latter's employment at the lumber mill and that Stevens had threatened to kill his former employer. Smith was sitting in the theater watching the performance when Stevens entered from the rear and fired three shots at him in rapid succession.

The shooting caused a panic in the theater. The crowd made a mad rush for the exits and several women fainted during the scuffle.

Pioneer St. Paul Business Man Passes Away.

St. Paul, June 11.—Joseph Elsinger, president of the Golden Rule department store, founder and liberal supporter of several St. Paul philanthropies, is dead. He was seventy years old.

Death is attributed to hardening of the arteries, superinduced by old age.

Mr. Elsinger was forced to his bed a month ago, following a suspension of active participation in business affairs a year previous.

His widow, a son, Karl, and daughter, Miss Helen, were at home when he died.

Born in Cleveland, O., in 1847, Mr. Elsinger came to St. Paul in 1878 and founded the Golden Rule store with his brother, W. H. Elsinger, and Jacob Dittenhofer.

STORM IN NORTH DAKOTA

High Wind Believed to Have Done Considerable Damage.

Fargo, N. D., June 11.—A fifty-mile wind, accompanied by heavy rains and at times assuming cyclonic proportions, swept over the western half of the state, doing considerable damage, the extent of which it is impossible to ascertain on account of wire trouble.

The United States observer at Bismarck notes the appearance of two twisters passing over the city, the first noted in official records for sixteen years.

Four hours' rain fell at Williston, Minot, Devils Lake, Bismarck and Lakota.

At Fargo the only damage was the destruction of some big trees in the park.

From England to France via Subway

BY F. W. GETTY.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, June 11.—One of the fondest dreams of England's engineers for centuries, a tunnel beneath the English Channel, will probably be realized after the war.

Sir Francis Fox has enabled the United Press to give an outline of how such a tunnel, which, burrowing 100 feet beneath the sea-floor, could discharge express and freight trains between England and France, and remove forever the menace of the submarine, can be constructed.

To drive a double tunnel through the grey Cenomanian chalk, diverting it ingeniously at one point through the gault, is today a simple feat of engineering, Sir Francis declared. Revolving cutters, fixed in Greathead shields, will eat through the earth like butter, and the debris can be constantly removed from the face by high-speed endless belts, discharging directly into wagons.

The Fox plan includes two tunnels, each eighteen feet in diameter, joined at intervals of 200 yards by cross tunnels. A complete system of ventilation is to be worked by electricity. Electric trains are to bring and take away the workmen.

In case such a tunnel should be seized by a hostile force, a water-lock, constructed to deal with such an emergency will enable the adjacent military authorities to flood it with water at an instant's notice. When the emergency is over the water can be pumped out by electric power.

The English entrance to the tunnel would be commanded by the Dover forts and by men-of-war in Dover harbor.

New Caledonia.

Until 1853 New Caledonia was a sort of no man's land. Then both England and France decided to annex it, and orders came to two warships to proceed thither at once. They started the same day. The English captain had heard of the reefs that surround the island, and he was cautious. The Frenchman went ahead without regard for the reefs. When the British captain arrived he saw the tricolor flying from a hill, and he was invited to come in and lunch on French soil.

M. E. CHURCH DEDICATION

Bishop Charles Bayard Mitchell of Minneapolis Not Present on Account of Sickness

REV. JOHN THOMPSON, CHICAGO

Appeared for the Bishop and Delivered Two Forceful Sermons.
Morning and Evening

Sunday was a gala day at the First Methodist church. This church has, for a period of eight years, planned upon a building which would permit of efficient work such as should characterize the modern church and would meet the needs of the community. The result of their years of planning culminated yesterday in the dedication of the beautiful new building just completed.

Bishop Charles Bayard Mitchell could not be present as was planned on account of sickness, but Rev. John Thompson, D. D., of Chicago, proved to be a most acceptable substitute. His morning and evening sermons were most forceful.

The fraternal greetings of the Baptist and Presbyterian churches by Revs. Cody and Lowrie were particularly fine. They congratulated the church upon its attainments and predicted that the work done by the Methodist organization could not but have a splendid reflex influence upon the other churches of the city. The Baptist choir furnished music for one of the services.

The congregations were made very happy by having Rev. Charles Fox Davis and Rev. E. E. Satterlee, former pastors, with them. They participated in the services. Rev. W. C. Hodgson, D. D., the district superintendent of the church and Rev. Alex J. Abbot of Pine River were visiting Methodist clergymen. The music was very fine.

The music yesterday from beginning to end was most inspiring. The Methodist choir under the proficient leadership of Dr. E. E. Long, rendered several anthems which pleased the congregation very much. The choir was accompanied by an orchestra under the directorship of Prof. Wm. Rodenkirchen which much enhanced the melody of the anthems.

Gussie Small, formerly of Brainerd, but now of Duluth, rendered two solo songs in his usual delightful manner. An unexpected number was the soprano soloist, Miss Bessie Mae Fasolt, instructor in music in the St. Paul Academy who is visiting at the parsonage, and rendered two solos in a most pleasing manner. The choir of the Baptist church kindly furnished the music at the seven o'clock service and rendered two beautiful anthems. The day was a musical treat and helped to make the initiation of the new church a long to be remembered event. Miss Fern Hitt had charge of the Sunday school orchestra and in the evening several pupils from the Bergh Violin School embellished the hymns by their appropriate music. This church needs a pipe organ to make its music perfect.

The membership of the church was universal in their expression of approval of the work of the building committee.

The harmonies of the auditorium are beautiful. It is finished in white oak stained mission fumed oak and the gothic effect is carried out in windows, paneling and pews.

The windows are very simple in design but most beautiful in coloring and give a beautiful soft light. The pews have sittings for 300 people. By opening the social rooms into the auditorium 500 people can be accommodated.

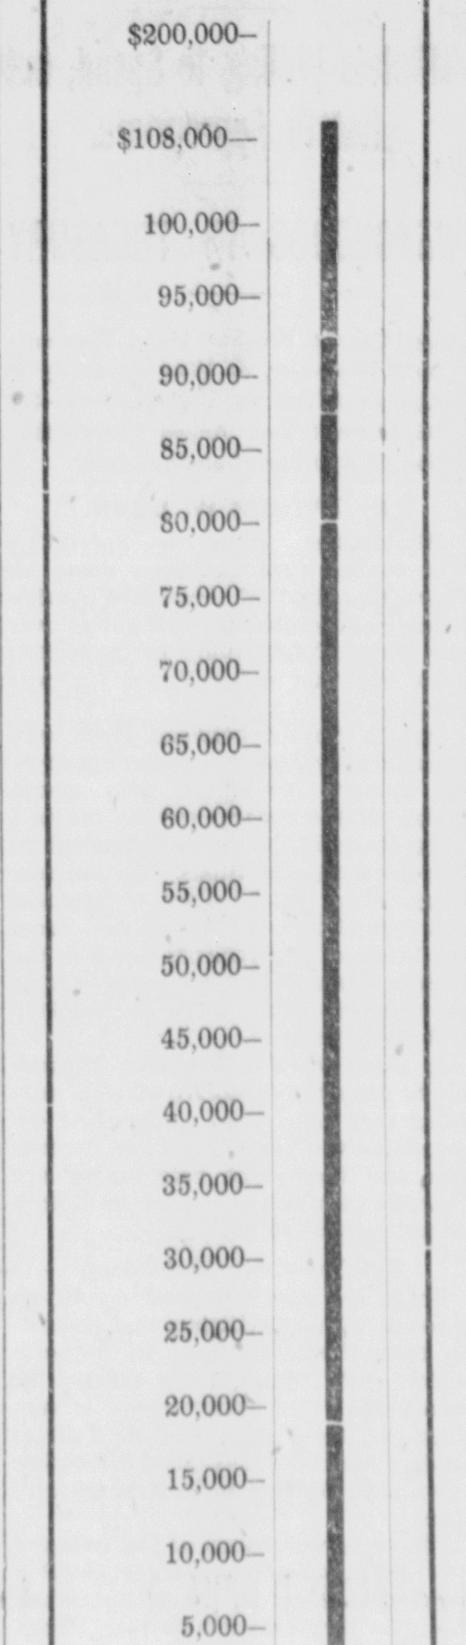

In formally turning the building over, H. F. Michael, chairman of the building committee, said that the building was planned to properly provide facilities for the religious institution of the church, to provide attractive rooms where the young life might have their social gatherings and a fitting place for worship.

The Sunday school section is ideal. Every department is provided for in accordance with the latest modern ideas. The parlors are very attractive and spacious.

The exterior of the building is very pleasing. The proportion of the stucco and shingles are excellent. Many congratulations were showered upon Rev. P. W. Hill for his splendid leadership in completing this structure. He has worked unceasingly to complete it. Rev. Hill has established a reputation in church building. He has done some building at every charge he has served during his ministry.

The financial response was splendid. The improvements cost the church $20,000, about half of which is paid in and the balance is covered by subscriptions. The church expressed much gratitude for the support given by many friends.

PLAINTIFF RESTS, HAMMEL-FEIGH CASE

Attorney Albert Fink of Chicago Argues for a Dismissal of the Suit in District Court

SCOFFED IDEA OF PARTNERSHIP

Claimed Hammel Never Consulted Lawyer About Alleged Partnership Until Rock Saw Him

At 11 o'clock this morning, the plaintiff rested in the case of Patrick Hammel vs. Thomas Feigh, which suits concerns the claim of Hammel to a partnership in rich mining lands on the north Cuyuna iron range.

In the morning Mr. Hammel had testified and was followed by C. T. Fairbank, of Birmingham, Alabama.

Attorney Albert Fink, of Chicago, presented the argument for a dismissal of the case. He scoffed at any claim for a half interest and said Hammel was an impressionable old man. Features of the case were not mere comedy, but real tragedy. He claimed Hammel had never consulted a lawyer about the alleged partnership until Rock went to him in 1916 and "impressed upon him the vision that he had a claim against Tom Feigh."

"In September, 1916, when Feigh was just about to receive payment of royalty," said Mr. Fink, "Hammel went to Feigh and tried to borrow $9,000, offering to give him a mortgage on all his interests." Feigh refused to lend any money.

MINNESOTA

Demonstration of Stauder Attachment

J. F. Woodhead has just returned from Minneapolis where he visited the E. T. Stauder Manufacturing Co., investigating the Mak-a-Tractor attachment for the Ford car.

The Stauder factory, said Mr. Woodhead, is a model plant in every detail, every square inch of space is utilized for the manufacture of the tractor. Some idea of the capacity may be gathered from the fact that in 48 hours the Stauder Co. turned out 500 complete tractors, crated and placed them in special express cars for the British government.

An expert mechanic accompanied the shipment to Europe and it is expected that a very large order will follow after the tractor has been tried on the firing line.

Four thousand five hundred of this same model have been sold and delivered in the United States. In the state of Iowa alone 1,000 are in actual use.

The Woodhead company is going to demonstrate this tractor at Carl Wheeler's farm Tuesday, June 12, with a breaking plow. Everyone is cordially invited, as an interested day is assured to all who come.

M. B. A. Lodge Moves

The M. B. A. lodge has removed from the Trades and Labor hall to new quarters in the Iron Exchange building at which latter place the meeting will be held Tuesday evening.

CAR OF WASTE PAPER

To be Shipped from Community Depot Under Direction Public Affairs Committee

A car for the shipment of waste paper accumulated at the community depot will be ordered in a short time and parties who expect to avail themselves of the opportunity of shipping under the plan of the public affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce are urged to list their paper at once to avoid delay.

A considerable quantity has been gathered at the depot and a car will probably be ordered for the 15th of this month. It is necessary to know approximately how much will be available at that time. Patrons of the depot are urged to co-operate by notifying the secretary of the Chamber just how much they expect to have and to have it weighed and delivered as soon as possible.

Must Pay Wolf Bounties

(Pillager Herald)
Wolf bounties must be paid as usual despite Governor Burnquist's veto of large appropriations to reimburse the counties, according to advices given county auditors by Ray P. Chase, deputy state auditor.

"The state requires the counties to pay for wolf bounties and promises to reimburse the county, but the failure of the state to keep its promises does not change the law requiring the county to pay the bounties," an opinion by Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith said. Because of the veto no state funds will be available before July 31, 1917, for this purpose.

AMERICAN WAR AIMS OUTLINED

President Wilson Sends Stirring Note to Russia.

SEEKS NO MATERIAL PROFIT

United States Is Fighting for the Liberation of Peoples Everywhere From the Aggressions of Autocratic Force. Germany Desperately Trying to Escape Inevitable, Ultimate Defeat.

Washington, June 11.—President Wilson, in a communication to the new government of Russia, has made plain the war aims of the United States and its position on "no annexation, no indemnities."

"No territory must change hands except for securing those who inhabit a fair chance of life and liberty," the communication says.

"No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrong done."

"No readjustments of power must be made, except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its people."

The president's communication in full is:

"In view of the visit of the American commission to Russia to discuss the best and most practical means of co-operation between the two peoples in carrying the present struggle for freedom of all peoples to a successful consummation it seems opportune and appropriate that I should state again, in the light of this new partnership, the objects the United States has had in mind in entering the war.

Great Issues Are at Stake.

"These objects have been very much clouded in the past few weeks by mistaken and misleading statements and the issues at stake are too momentous, too tremendous, too significant for the whole human race to permit any misinterpretations or misunderstandings, however slight, to remain uncorrected for a moment.

"The war has begun to go against Germany and in their desperate desire to escape the inevitable, ultimate defeat those who are in authority in Germany are using every possible instrumentality, are making use even of the influence of groups and parties among their own subjects to whom they have never been just or fair or even tolerant, to promote a propaganda on both sides of the sea which will preserve for them their influence at home and their power abroad, to the undoing of the very men they are using.

"The position of America in this war is so clearly avowed no man can be excused for mistaking it. She seeks no material profit or aggrandizement of any kind. She is fighting for no advantage or selfish object of her own, but for the liberation of peoples everywhere from the aggressions of autocratic force.

Scores German Ruling Classes.

"The ruling classes in Germany have begun of late to profess a like liberation and justice of purpose, but only to preserve the power they have set up in Germany and the selfish advantages which they have wrongly gained for themselves and their private prospects of power all the way from Berlin to Bagdad and beyond.

"Government after government has, by their influence without open conquest of territory, been linked together in a net of intrigue directed against nothing less than the peace and liberty of the world.

"The meshes of that intrigue must be broken, but cannot be broken unless wrongs already done are undone, and adequate measures must be taken to prevent it from ever again being renewed or repaired.

"Of course, the Imperial German government and those whom it is using for their own undoing are seeking to obtain pledges the war will end in the restoration of the status quo ante.

"It was the status quo ante out of which this iniquitous war issued forth, the power of the Imperial German government within the empire and its widespread domination and influence outside of that empire. That status must be altered in such a fashion as to prevent any such hideous thing from ever happening again.

America Fights for Liberty.

"We are fighting for the liberty, the self-government and the undictated development of all peoples and every feature of the settlement that concludes this war must be conceived and executed for that purpose.

"Wrongs must first be righted and then adequate safeguards must be created to prevent this being committed again. We ought not to consider remedies merely because they have a pleasing and sonorous sound.

"Practical questions can be settled only by practical means. Phrases will not achieve the result. Effective readjustments will and whatever readjustments are necessary must be made. But they must follow a principle and that principle is plain.

"No people must be forced under sovereignty under which it does not wish to live. No territory must change hands except for the purpose of securing for those who inhabit it a fair chance of life and liberty. No indemnities must be insisted on except those that constitute payment for manifest wrongs done. No readjustments of power must be made except such as will tend to secure the future peace of the world and the future welfare and happiness of its peoples.

To Secure Peace and Justice.

"And then the free peoples of the world must draw together in some common government, some genuine and practical co-operation that will, in effect, combine their force to secure peace and justice in the dealing of nations with one another.

"The brotherhood of mankind must no longer be a fair but empty phrase. It must be given a structure of force and reality. The nations must realize their common life and effect a workable partnership to secure that life against the aggressions of autocratic and self-pleasing powers.

"For these things we can afford to pour out our blood and treasure. For these things we have always professed to desire and unless we pour out blood and treasure now and succeed we may never be able to write or show conquering force again in the great cause of human liberty.

"The day has come to conquer or submit. If the forces of autocracy can divide us they will overcome us; if we stand together victory is certain and the liberty which victory will secure. We can afford to be generous, but we cannot afford then or now to be weak or omit any single guarantee of justice and security."

REGISTRATION YET BELOW ESTIMATES

Washington, June 11.—Virginia and the national parks added their registration figures to the totals at the provost marshal general's office, bringing the registration reported from twenty-seven states, the district and the parks up to 4,808,594, compared with a census estimate of eligibles of 5,661,429.

Of the totals registered 3,621,965 are white, 692,734 negro, 279,636 aliens and 45,179 alien enemies. Possible exemptions indicated are 2,624,583.

Reports complete except for a few precincts have been received for the many states, but they will not be announced until final figures are in.

Officials still think that the total registration will be more than 9,000,000, or something over 85 per cent of the estimated eligibles.

SOCIALIST OPPOSES PEACE

Former Russian Exile Advocates Defeat of Germany.

Christiania, June 11.—Prince Peter Kropotkin, the Russian Socialist leader, who has been in exile in England for many years and was invited to return home by the revolutionary government, has arrived in Christiania on his way to Petrograd. He issued a statement warning "all true friends of peace" against any attempt to hinder Germany's defeat.

"Such fantastic dreams as German domination from Berlin to Bagdad must be given up," he said. "France must have Alsace and Lorraine. The independence of Poland must be assured. Until that is done Russia must and will fight for victory.

"The revolution came just in the nick of time to prevent the disgrace of a separate peace," he said. "Negotiations between the old regime and the Germans had been virtually completed and the old regime planned to sign a separate peace agreement two days later."

ALL DEPARTMENTS SEEK MORE MONEY

Officials Willing to Spend, but Not to appropriate.

WATCHDOGS IN TREASURY

They Cannot Prevent Huge Expenditures, However, as War Necessity Is Always Given as the Grounds—No Department Ever Asked For Reduction in Appropriations But One.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 9.—[Special.]—The contest that has been going on from the time of organized parliamentary governments with power over the purse is developing in connection with our vast expenditures for war purposes.

It is a contest between those who spend money and those who appropriate money. No official who spends money of the government, so far as I have observed, has ever attempted to cut down appropriations. On the contrary, every official tries to increase the expenditures of his office. From the heads of departments down to the humblest officeholder who makes a report the cry is for more clerical help and larger salaries.

In these times it is almost impossible to deny the executive officials anything they ask. They make their demands on the grounds of war necessities, and those who vote money are charged with lack of patriotism if they do not respond to the call.

But There Are Watchdogs.

But these appropriations do all go through without criticism and protest. In fact, things are said in congress which show that quite a number of men believe that extravagance is running riot these days and that officeholders are being multiplied altogether too rapidly for the good of the government.

There are watchdogs of the treasury now, as in times past. They growl a great deal, bark at times, but when they bite they cannot hold fast. They are like the puppy clinging to a rag—they have to let go after awhile, and the bills go through as planned.

A Noted Exception.

There is one noted exception to the statement that officials never ask for reduced appropriations. The postoffice department once asked for a reduction in the amount appropriated for rural routes, and congress responded by increasing the sum several millions. But the rural routes are mighty factors in the politics of many congressmen.

Talk of Joy Rides.

In one of the recent bills was a provision for $250,000 for automobiles for one bureau. Of course that caused allusions to joy riding, particularly as the bureau operates far and wide throughout the country. There will be much pleasure riding in connection with the work that bureau performs in the mountains during the summer.

A Strange Idea.

It has seemed rather strange to the ordinary observer that men from the far west should vote for the zone rate of postage. They did so when they voted to make the rate on first class postage 2 cents in cities, while it is 3 cents in country districts, and again when they voted to increase so largely the rates on second class mail. The so called drop letter rate in cities is of no benefit to the country people or to the people in small towns, but means a vast difference to the big business and residents of cities. The zone rate on second class mail means that the people of the far zones will pay more for their papers and periodicals or go without them. So it is rather curious that men from the west should vote as they did on these items in the revenue bill.

Two Speakers Didn't Know.

Former Speaker Cannon speaking in the interest of economy one day told the house that the government owned a large number of buildings on land acquired for new public buildings, but was not using them, on the contrary, was renting other buildings.

Speaker Clark interrupted to ask why a certain valuable tract of land that had been bought when Cannon was speaker had not been utilized. "Why do they not build on it?" asked the present speaker.

"Search me," responded the former speaker. And Clark pursued his inquiries further showing that the government owned plenty of land and yet did not put up buildings. And no one was able to tell why.

Hamilton Knew.

The subject of cottonseed mixed with flour came up for considerable discussion in the house. Congressman Young of Texas told a lot about the use of cottonseed for food and said:

"Two-thirds of the weight in cottonseed is valuable for food products. You use cottonseed oil every day at your hotel and you do not know it."

"We know that," interjected Hamilton of Michigan.

Young continued: "You are using cottonseed as an oil for cooking your bread, and you do not know it. You use it every day as butter, and you do not know it."

"We do," again asserted Hamilton. He might have added that a great many other people are aware of the use of cottonseed oil in cooking.

PLEASE MOVE MISSOURI MOB

Six Persons Accused of Murder Escape Lynching.

Springfield, Mo., June 11.—Seized by a mob of Springfield citizens six prisoners were saved from lynching, even after a noose had been placed about the neck of one, by their pleas of innocence of any connection with the abduction and death of the baby son of J. H. Keet, a Springfield banker, and have been taken to places of safety.

Sheriff Webb returned to Springfield and told the story of his attempt to spirit the six prisoners away from Springfield in automobiles, of the wild night ride through the Ozark hills pursued by the mob and of being overtaken and forced to turn over the prisoners.

DECLARES SLACKERS SHOULD LOSE VOTE

Philadelphia, June 11.—The man who refuses to risk his body for America should lose his vote, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt told 6,000 cheering Philadelphians in a momentous address on the problems which the United States at war faces.

The former president, in the most comprehensive speech he has made since America went to war, roused the enthusiasm of the crowd by his scathing suggestions to test the conscience of the "conscientious objectors."

He spoke at memorial services of the five great railroad brotherhoods.

He urged as a permanent policy a system of selecting officers for the national army from the rank and file. He said every man must have an equal chance and have no advantage through wealth to become an American army officer.

His call for the "square deal" in picking commanders of American soldiers brought a wave of applause and cheering.

It was the conscientious objector that he put to the test. He proposed as the test for these:

"Do you object to killing or to being killed?"

ST. PAUL BARTENDER GUILTY OF MURDER

St. Paul, June 11.—Mike Moore, bartender and alleged pay off in the Alice McQuillan Dunn murder plot, was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a Ramsey county district court jury and was sentenced to hard labor for life in the state prison at Stillwater by Judge H. O. Hanft.

Following the conviction of Moore, St. Paul and Ramsey county authorities prepared for the trial this week of Frank J. Dunn, husband of the murdered woman, and the alleged "man higher up" in the case. Dunn is charged with providing the money which Moore paid Joseph Redenbaugh and Frank McCool for slaying Mrs. Dunn.

The jury which found Moore guilty reported its verdict to the court after deliberating less than an hour.

When the verdict was announced Moore leaped from his chair in the courtroom and launched a frenzied tirade against the jurors and the court. He kept up a string of abusive language until he had been sentenced and taken back to his cell in the county jail.

LUTHERAN CHURCHES UNITE

Norwegian League Effected at Convention in St. Paul.

St. Paul, June 11.—In the largest meeting of Norwegian Lutheran churchmen ever held the three large church organizations of America, separated for twenty-seven years by minor theological differences, united in one great church organization to be known as the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America.

The formal union of the organizations, bringing into one fold more than 3,000 congregations and hundreds of educational and other organizations, followed a parade of 3,000 delegates of the three organizations from the St. Paul armory to the St. Paul Auditorium, where the union took place.

There, following an assembly in which the churchmen pledged the loyalty of the greater body to America and prayed for American success in the war, the new Norwegian Lutheran Church of America was formed by a merger of the United Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, the Norwegian Lutheran synod and Hauge's Norwegian Lutheran synod.
